

The Best Places To Feast For Thanksgiving Dinner In San Diego

Whether you're craving a traditional turkey dinner with all the trimmings, exploring innovative takes on classic dishes at some of San Diego's finest restaurants, or opting for a delicious meal to-go, these venues have something for everyone this Thanksgiving.

Check back often between now and Thanksgiving; we'll be updating this list frequently.

Rancho La Puerta

Rancho La Puerta, the original “fitness resort” and spa in Tecate, Mexico, is the perfect spot for a week of reflection and giving thanks this Thanksgiving season, offering a robust wellness-infused itinerary (complete with a Thanksgiving feast, of course!) for a special Rancho La Puerta take on the holiday.

Fest and Feast Package | For the week of Nov. 18-25, The Ranch is offering groups of six or more exclusive benefits such as preferred rates and a $150 spa credit per person.

Thanksgiving Feast | In addition to her Tuesday and Wednesday hands-on cooking classes, Chef Susana Thrilling is collaborating with Executive Chef Reyna Venegas to cook a savory Thanksgiving feast, complete with wine pairings, at The Ranch’s culinary school, La Cocina Que Canta (“The Kitchen That Sings”). On Thursday, Nov. 23 at 4PM, Ranch guests can gather around the table in gratitude for a combination of community and cultures, which is what the holiday is all about! The meal will incorporate Oaxacan and Baja California flavors in traditional Thanksgiving favorites. Price: $150 per person.
